10 MINUTE DRIVE

Rural communities are changing.

Buckholts is getting a $99,000 grant for the town's first sewer system from FHA, supplementing a $351,000 loan earlier from FHA.

It means 161 residences and 15 businesses will be taken off septic tanks.

In Milano, a town council has been organized in recent months to deal with similar needs in that Southeast Milam community.

For the past decade communities throughout the Milam area have been installing water systems. Perhaps a dozen of them ring the county, establishing a network of water system and well supply.

It foretells the ultimate development of the whole county beyond community concentration, going into development of more housing along exisiting paved, accessible roads.

It hasn't been many years since Buckholts was having telephone service problems, paving problems, other basic service needs which failed of modern standards.

And now a sewer system will be installed.

Small communities under 2,000 face the longest challenge in regaining the stability of population they once had as farm centers. About the only way they can stabilize and grow with new population is to provide the modern community amenities in conjunction with good location on major highways in proximity to larger towns.

Buckholts fits well into this pattern, having incorporated numerous area interests of Cameron.

Milano with the advent of Shell lignite mining will in few years become more than its historic Milano junction rail center. It is becoming a community close to major oil finds and a center for heavy highway traffic going northeast, southwest and southeast.

If Cameron is satellite to Bell County and I35 development as well as centrally located among Waco, Austin, Bryan, communities like Buckholts and Milano are satellite to the larger towns like county- seat Cameron within 10 minutes drive.

Area Youths To Work In Manpower Push

Fifty-one youths in the Cameron area, found to be "economically disadvantaged," have enrolled in a work experience project to be conducted this summer under the Manpower program, Mrs. Kathryn Helsley, Manpower's Milam County office manager, announced.

About $50,000 in federal funds have been appropriated under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act to pay the young people, age 14 to 21, for their work in schools and nonprofit agencies in the area.

They will be paid $2.30 an hour, working 40 hours a week for eight weeks.

The program began with an orientation day on June 1 and the youths will report to their work stations on June 2.

Fourteen of the workers have been assigned to the Cameron school district, 14 to the Rogers school district, four to the Gause school district, four to the Buckholts school district, four to Newton Hospital, three to St. Edward Hospital, one to the Cameron Day Care Center, five to the Cameron Housing Authority office, one to the county judge's office and one to the Central Texas Manpower Consortium office in Cameron.

In 1975 he joined the district attorney's office in McLennan County where he has served as an assistant district attorney until now.

Free Phone Calls Offered By Social Security Office

A new service, known as "Enterprise Line," is now available to all persons in the Cameron area for calling the social security office in Temple direct at no charge.

Anyone who has a question or problem about any social security matter, can dial "0" and ask for Enterprise 8-6795. The caller will be put through to the Temple office at no charge.

The phone service is new and is free to the public. Most social security claims and services can now be handled by phone.

For those who prefer to discuss their claime or questions in person, the social security representative will continue to be available at Cameron at the courthouse on each Tuesday to serve the public as before.

For those who prefer to go to the district office, it is located on the ground floor of the new Poage Federal Building in downtown Temple.

Lott Doctors' Clinic Becoming A Reality

Optimism is running high in Lott as preparations move forward for a doctor's clinic which is scheduled to open July 1. The clinic will be in the old city library, which is being renovated for its new function.

Four Rosebud doctors have agreed to staff the clinic, with one of the four to be in Lott five days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., taking turns from their practice at the Rosebud Medical services Clinic.

The doctors include B.E. Phillips, H.B. Halbert, A.A. Cisneros and C.R. Peterson.

Lott Mayor Gordon Broome said it will take about another two weeks to finish the work, which includes the installation of a new heating and cooling system, new plumbing and wiring, new ceiling and a new tile floor.

The clinic will have a waiting room, two doctor's offices, two examination rooms and a lounge area for nurses.

The city borrowed $25,000 to renovate the old library and buy office equipment in March, after Lott residents voiced their support at a public hearing.

Broome said nearly all of the 50-60 medical items specified by the Rosebud doctors have been bought, and money has been stretched by purchasing used office furniture.

Lott residents now have to drive either 11 miles to Rosebud or 12 miles to Marlin for medical services. Residents say this is hard for the elderly, who either cannot drive or cannot find somebody to take them to a doctor.

Mayor Broome said the clinic will not only aid Lott residents, but will also benefit the people of Chilton, Westphalia and other area communities.

Broome expects that in a year's time the clinic will have more than enough patients to keep it going. Lott has 1,200 residents, and Broome said the surrounding trade area could provide the medical clinic with a potential 3,000 patients.

Lott's last doctor moved his practice from the city to another town in 1964

2 Face Murder Charges

A LITTLE HAZING - Susan Moore upends a bucket of soapy water over an unknown friend's head while they wash cars at the direction of incoming Yoe High seniors. The new freshmen are at the new seniors' mercy for the rest of the summer, it seems.

Graduation Party Ends In Tragedy

Two Cameron men are in the Milam County jail facing murder charges following the stabbing death of a Minerva man at a party early Sunday morning at the Mexican Fiesta Grounds in Cameron.

Ignacio Reyes, 34, of Minerva, died in the emergency room at St. Edward Hospital following the 1:40 a.m. stabbings, Sheriff Leroy Broadus said.

Charged before Justice of the Peace Jess Brock Sunday morning for murder were Pete Borgas, 18, and Johnny Borgas, 21, both of 1000 South Nolan in Cameron. Bond was set at $10,000 each.

Cirilio Reyes, Ignacio's brother, was treated for knife wounds at the local hospital and released, Broadus said.

The party was sponsored by parents of Mexican - American students at Yoe High for celebrating their graduation and was held on the Fiesta Grounds southwest of Cameron.

Broadus said that the trouble apparently started earlier in the evening between the Reyes and Borgas men. He said after the party was over and people were starting to leave, the Borgas men reportedly attacked Cirilio and Ignacio came to his aid and was stabbed. Broadus said there was some bottle-throwing and a general melee but no one else was reported hurt.

Council Grants TP&L Franchise For New City

The Milano city council has started to function for the newly incorporated city, granting a franchise to Texas Power & Light Co. to operate in the city limits at its regular meeting.

TP&L Manager Larry Morrow gave a report on the 11.3 percent overall rate increase granted the company by the Texas Public Utilities Commission.

In other action, the council designated the Citizens National Bank of Cameron to be the depository for city funds, and named The Rockdale Reporter as Milano's newspaper for official notices.

The council also authorized Mayor Charles Martin to order an ordinance book, minutes book and an official seal for the city.

Fun-Music-Food Top Fete Plans

Folk Fete planners are winding up final preparations for the annual festival which will start at the end of next week with a queen's contest Thursday night.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday (June 10-12) activities will be held at the Mexican Feista Grounds, a new location for the Fete, which started in 1970 at City Park and moved to the National Guard Armory.

A big surprise is promised for parade-goers on Saturday morning when they see who is this year's parade marshal. Mrs. Pearlie Krenek, parade chairman, is keeping his identity a secret, but says he is "very distinguished." She reports a large number of entries for the downtown parade, with more still to be confirmed.

Maxie Morgan, chairman of arts and crafts booths, said he has commitments from 30 artists and craftsmen, who will display their work on the Fiesta Grounds on Saturday and Sunday.

Music aplenty is scheduled, with country-western, Mexican, Czech, Irish, and others to play in the pavilion. Folk dancing by Irish, Czech, German and Western and Mexican performers will also add to the fun.

There will be plenty of food, too, according to chairman James Anderle. Mexican plates, nachos and chili dogs, barbecue beef and sausage, hot links, sno-cones, sausage on a stick, fried chicken, and corn on the cob will be offered, with kolaches for dessert.

A new feature of the Fete fun and games this year will be a cow chip throwing contest, with entries encouraged from both men and women. This will be sponsored by the Evening Lions. And the CYO will have a dunking pool for a cooling effect.

Jeff Webster is in charge of games and contests and said on Saturday on the grounds there will be a wheelbarrow race, piggyback race, sack race, three-legged race, egg race and duck walk. A tricycle race in the pavilion will be for the younger set.

Admission to the grounds will be $1 per person.

A dance will be held each night, with Mike Flores De Las Cameronnsitos and Red Watson Texas Country playing Friday night; The Little Fishermen on Saturday night and Vrazel's Polka Band on Sunday night.

The Herald will publish a special pullout section in Monday's edition, with a complete schedule of events and more stories on the upcoming Fete.

ASCS OFFICE TO REGISTER BEEF PRODUCERS

The Milam County ASCS office will register beef producers June 6-17 to vote on th beef research and information order, and beef producers who fail to register cannot vote in the July referendum, announced Douglas Buck, ASCS director.

Registration may be in person or by mail. Those who wish to register by mail may request the county ASCS office to mail registration cards.

All persons who produced beef during calender year 1976 are eligible to register. This includes feedlot operators as well as dairymen.

Each production entity -- such as a family, partnership, or corporation -- is entitled to one vote. A 4-H or FFA member may register, provided he or she produced beef independent of the family operation.

If over half of registered producers vote in the referendum and two-thirds of those voting approve the order, the Secretary of Agriculture will appoint a beef board, composed of not more than 68 beef producers. The board would collect assessments on sales of cattle and use the funds for beef research and information programs.

From June 6 through 17, the ASCS office will daily post a list of producers registered, with a final list posted June 22. Anyone may challenge the eligibility of any producer listed. Buck will resolve the challenges.

Diversity, Room, Climate...

They are not asking "why Central Texas?" anymore with the almost pervasive shift of development interest to this area of Texas.

A series in the dailies about the decline of Northeastern industrial cities is symptomatic of the era, a time incidentally which coincides with an era of good feelings, good vibrations among diverse types in Central Texas.

Your Herald a couple of decades ago examined the diversity of its people and queried publishers of Standard Rate and Data Source whether or not this area was not a good one for test ad campaigns. The inquiry was premature.

But the mix of people which is more homogenous in modern attitudes each passing day here is substantially the same and the basis for Cameron's annual Folk Fete.

Without the weight of numbers and the compression of major city limits, Milam County and Milam area are representative of a mix not unlike that in New York, Chicago or San Francisco.

This rural diversity is the basis for sophisticated development because people of all types, temperaments and talents await the influx which is ours.

Certainly, Cameron has pioneered, even ahead of the Folk Life Festival in San Antonio, bringing the cultures of area peoples together.

It seems altogether old stuff. But it is altogether modern. And what's more, it is working.

Like so much of the sunbelt, we have the room and climate to grow.

What Others Say...

Aquaculture...

Bought any shrimp or lump crabmeat lately? Like eating money. Same old story: The smaller the supply, the greater the price. As we continue to pollute our coastal waters, here and throughout the world, shellfish increasingly become a luxury. To a lesser extent, that goes for other saltwater fish. Seafood is a great dish - and is high in essential protein. As the task of cleaning the seas gains an inch here and loses one there, what can we do to insure abundant seafood?

Aquaculture, or fish farming, is more than 2,000 years old in Asia, where population is dense and farmland is critically short. Only in the past decade has it progressed enough to become an economically sound venture in the United States. Aquaculture -- literally, the cultivation of water -- offers an unlimited source of food. A constant protein shortage has been the impetus in Asia. The impetus here has been economic -- filling an increasing demand for shrimp, salmon and other costly seafoods.

More than 16,000 commercial catfish farms now dot the South. Last year they produced 50,000 tons of fish on 75,000 acres of landlocked ponds. The point is, the growers have raised up to 10,000 pounds of fish per acre in 128 days -- far more protein than the land could have produced if farmed conventionally. That becomes important when you know that around two-thirds of the fish Americans eat is imported.

What this country needs is a good aquacultural revolution, and we may be getting it. Last summer Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, joined by eight colleagues, introduced a bill to promote aquaculture. It failed, but has been refiled and is awaiting committee action. The bill would establish a national aquacultural plan, offer research facilities to universities and guarantee loans for building aquacultural facilities.

A business research concern made an exhaustive study of the commercial aspects of aquaculture last year. It concluded that it is possible to raise more than a ton of shrimp per acre per year under ideal conditions. U.S. shrimp farms now produce less than 500 pounds per acre annually. In Texas, experiments continue near Pecos, hundreds of miles from the Gulf Coast, and at Corpus Christi, where shrimp farming is sometimes known as ocean ranching.

The goal is to insure a bumper shrimp harvest every year. Fish farming now accounts for only 3 per cent of the fish and shellfish produced in the U.S.; in the rest of the free world, aquaculture accounts for 10 per cent of production. The Bentsen bill's time has come.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Some pessimistic people claim it's impossible for the nations of the world to ever get together on much of anything, especially on abolishing war. They say an agreement between nations isn't worth the paper it's written on even though the price of paper is ten times what it used to be, including the paper the Herald is printed on.

This is not always true. For example, just recently the major countries got together and signed an agreement outlawing the use of weather in warfare.

They've agreed that a man-induced earthquake, for instance, cannot be used, although you can see how effective it'd be to run one right through the middle of your enemy's country when it was getting ready to attack.

It is now unlawful, under the agreement, to stir up the ocean and send a tidal wave over some country you're at war with.

Guided hurricanes or tornadoes cannot be sent through another country, ripping up cities right and left in the pursuit of peace.

Producing a drought throughout your opponent's lands has been outlawed, as well as, in case you overlooked some spots and crops came up anyway, producing torrential rains at harvest time.

Lightning can't be man-directed, it must be allowed to strike where it pleases like nature intended. No late crop-killing freezes are allowed, and no country will be permitted to melt another country's snow in the winter time.

Now you ask, will the nations signing this agreement live up to it? Will they refuse for example to devastate an enemy's country with a searing drought, or split it in half with an earthquake?

Of course they will....until one of them figures out how to do it.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Legislators Say Session A Success

Legislators headed for home this week, pronouncing their session a success in many areas.

They also departed amid warnings in both houses that the level of income will not sustain another 37 per cent increase in spending without a major tax bill in 1979.

Lawmakers completed action on the record $15.5 billion biennial spending bill three days before the adjournment deadline, clearing the decks for late concentration on school finance and miscellaneous issues.

The session turned out a variety of anti-crime bills recommended by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and legislative leadership. Other crime-control measures were casualties of the session.

Lawmakers months ago allocated $528 million in additional funds to highway building and maintenance. The measure already has been signed into law by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Also signed early was the coal slurry pipeline bill giving operators of pipelines to move coal mixed with water authority to take needed lands for right of way.

The session saw a new record for filibusters — 43 hours — set by Sen. Bill Meier of Euless. The measure Meier attacked — to close certain Industrial Accident Board records to those who would seek to copy and sell them to employers — made it through the Senate.

Many thought the session also set some kind of record for dullness.

It seemed to convince nearly everybody there are too many bills introduced to take care of in a 140-day meeting, but no restrictions are likely in the future.

Tax Income Up

Tax collections for the current fiscal year are 16 per cent above the same period in 1976, and the state closed books at the end of March with a cash balance of $1.31 billion.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said tax collections through the first seven months of fiscal 1977 (Sept. 1, 1976-March 31, 1977) were $2.25 billion. That is $315.8 million over the first seven months of fiscal 1976.

Motor vehicle sales taxes boomed 25 per cent and natural gas production taxes 33 per cent in that period.

A 159 per cent jump in corporate franchise taxes revenue was traceable largely to release of funds paid under protest from settlement of a court case.

Bullock reported total state revenues thus far in fiscal 1977 are $3.8 billion, up 11 per cent over 1976. Total state expenditures during the same period were $3.95 billion, an increase of only one per cent.

Standards Deferred

The Texas Air Control Board, on Gov. Dolph Briscoe's request, has put off tough enforcement standards for pollution control that might have forced cancelling of many industrial projects.

Briscoe suggested an all-out effort to improve air quality before the enforcement crackdown. He estimated shutting down projects that failed to meet federal air standards may halt $2.5 billion in industrial construction and cause loss of jobs.

Atty. Gen. John Hill said he has suggestions for state legal steps to insure more equitable enforcement of the federal clean air act by the Environmental Protection Agency "and to prevent a self-defeating no growth policy . . ." Hill said he wants to convince Congress the "bankrupt emissions trade-off policy" should be abandoned.

Courts Speak

The Supreme Court upheld the will of a 19-year-old woman student who left about $70,000 to Texas A&M University. The student was killed in an auto accident and her will challenged by her mother and half sister.

In other actions the high court held:

A $200,000 judgment is valid against a Houston railroad for falsely reporting tests showed an injured employee had taken methadone.

Fire marshals' investigative reports are not covered by the open records law.

Deeds reserving mineral rights in general do not reserve minerals that can be extracted only by substantial destruction of the surface.

A case involving a train wreck near Plantersville due to washed out track should be heard to determine whether railroad negligence or an act of God caused the accident.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a 75-year murder sentence of John Lewis Sullivan III in Dallas County because the death weapon was discovered during an illegal search.

AG Opinions

A provision of the auto Safety Responsibility Act for suspending drivers' licenses where a person fails to pay a judgment does not apply unless the judgment arises out of a motor vehicle accident on the highways, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The Committee to Study the Selection Process of Chief Administrative Officers of Component Institutions of the University of Texas System does not have to comply with the open meetings act.

Short Snorts

Charles Barden resigned as executive director of Texas Air Control Board, effective June 30. to enter private business with a consulting firm specializing in air pollution controls.

A 132-page report of the Texas Bicentennial Commission was presented to the governor.

Gross sales in Texas for the last three months of 1976 exceeded $43.3 billion, raising the year's total to $142.4 billion, according to Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Air Conditioning and your electric bill.

The summer months in Texas are that time when the largest factor in most electric bills is operation of air conditioning equipment. On the average, air conditioning accounts for about half of summertime bills.

The most important single factor in holding down the cost of air conditioning is insulation.

Proper insulation blocks out heat. Six or more inches is recommended for attics, three or more inches for walls and two inches around the ducts of central systems. Insulation dealers or a TP&L Service Representative will help you determine the amounts you have and the amounts you may need to add.

Replace missing or worn weather stripping around door and window openings. Caulk around the outside of doors and windows where the frames meet the walls.

Keep fireplace dampers closed when not in use. Close blinds or drapes to block out direct sunlight.

Keep furniture and draperies away from air outlets and returns. Clean grills often.

Check filters every 30 days. If you have the permanent type, clean them by manufacturer's directions; if they're the disposable type, replace them when they're dirty.

Have your air conditioning equipment checked seasonally by a qualified serviceman.

Set the thermostat on 78°, or higher. Turn equipment off if you will be away from home for several days or longer.

Brazos River Committee To Develop Basin Plan

The Planning Advisory Committee of the Brazos Basin Water Quality Management study, in its initial meeting, elected officers and committee members and called for public participation in the development of a water quality management plan for the Brazos River basin and adjacent coastal areas.

A total of 77 persons attended the first meeting in Waco. The group included interested citizens as well as 41 members of the Planning Advisory Committee.

The committee elected Henry Turney of Dublin as chairman, R.W. Butler of Bryan and vice-chairman and Dewey C. Cox, Jr. of Ranger as secretary.

The committee divided the 44,000 square mile Brazos basin into three subdivisions and elected Mayor Benny Howard of Richwood as chairman of the lower basin subcommittee, Mayor Richard Crowe of Buckholts was named chairman of the middle basin subcommittee and A.F. O'Brien of Spur was named chairman of the upper basin subcommittee.

The 64-member committee was appointed by Gov. Briscoe to advise and assist the Brazos river Authority in development of the Water Quality management plan. The committee includes mayors of 27 cities, representatives of other local governments and citizens representing diverse interests plus representatives from state and federal government agencies.

One of the main objectives of the committee is to facilitate citizen input and to assure the plans developed are acceptable to the people they are to serve.

Expanding on this objective, chairman Turney said, "The purpose of establishing sub-committees is to help provide for more effective local participation in the planning program by holding sub-committee meetings in regions with common economic and geographic characteristics."

"We hope," he said, "that members of the public throughout the Brazos Basin and adjacent coastal areas will become involved in this planning effort since the plan, as a schedule for significant future public expenditures and as a guide for protecting our precious water resources, will affect the future lives of every citizen within the planning area".

The Brazos Basin Water Quality Management Plan is being prepared by the Brazos River Authority, under contract with the Texas Water Quality Board, as a part of a statewide program being carried out pursuant to regulations of the Environmental Protection agency for implementing Section 208 of the 1972 Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments.

The proposed work schedule and procedures for developing the plan for the Brazos area, which stretches from the New Mexico border to the Gulf Coast at Freeport and is larger than the state of Tennessee, were explained and discussed at the initial meeting.

County Agent's Notes

Red Spider Mites Annual Problem

By: Bill McCutchen
Milam County Extension Agent

Red Spider Mites are an annual problem in many home gardens and on flowers and shrubbery in many lawn, while other homeowners seem to have few or no problems with them.

There are several reasons for this and several ways to avoid spider mite infestations.

One way to avoid spider mite problems is to keep the area around gardens and yards free of weeds. Many native weeds serve as hosts. Another host plant grown in yards and gardens commonly is the marigold.

Some gardeners plant marigolds in the garden to repel root knot nematodes. This is not effective in the first place, and secondly this plant is highly attractive to red spider mites.

Another cause of red spider mite outbreaks is the indiscriminate us of Sevin on gardens. Sevin is an excellent material for leaf chewing insects but kills beneficials also and has no effect on the red spider mite leaving them in an excellent position to multiply rapidly.

If you use Sevin, switch to a material such as Malathion or Diazinin for the next application. These materials are not very effective for spider mite control, but they will check population buildups.

If you already have the problem, there are two materials that are effective, Kelthane can be used on most garden plants and yard plants.

There is a waiting period for harvest when Kelthane is used. In using either of these materials repeated applications will be necessary and it is important to cover the underside of the leaves.

COTTON FLEAHOPPERS

Fleahoppers have been building rapidly in untreated cotton fields and pose a real threat where they are left unchecked. Be sure and check the square set on cotton and look for adult and nymph fleahoppers invading.

As the pasture weeds are drying out fleahoppers are moving to cotton in heavy numbers.

Be sure to treat cotton for overwintered boll weevils as it approaches 1/3 grown square stage. This stage is reached about 35 days after emergence. Materials used to treat for overwintered weevils will also be effective on the cotton fleahopper.

Commercial Beekeepers Provide Bulk of State's Honey Supply

AUSTIN–While many a backyard enthusiast has learned to keep bees for home honey consumption and profit, the bulk of honey production in the state rests in the hands of some 100 commercial beekeepers, according to the Texas Department of Agriculture.

"Commercial beekeepers are designated as such when they maintain as many as 300 hives," explained Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown. "Some of the largest operations include up to 4,000 hives."

Under the 1974 law designed to protect the Texas beekeepers' available supplies of nectar, beekeepers entering fields are restricted for the first time in where they can locate their hives. No hives are allowed any closer than two miles from any other keeper's bees.

In the past, a beekeeper could come into a field and place hives alongside already existing hives at will.

Honey has been favored as a natural sweetener from the time of the ancients, according to Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, when it was often the only available source of sugar. Honey adds over $5 million to the Texas economy.

Honey added to cake, cookies and bread doughs give them remarkable keeping qualities as well as chewy texture and a browner color, according to the Texas Department of Agriculture Home Economist.

In puddings, custards and pie fillings, use honey cup for cup as a replacement for sugar, suggests the Texas Department of Agriculture home economist.

Texans' Traditional Boots Are 'Must' in any Wardrobe

AUSTIN--Whether battered and worn and slipped neatly into a dusty stirrup, or shiny and new, propped on an executive's desk, the legendary cowboy boot is a "must" in any truly up-to-date Texan's wardrobe.

There's no doubt that in recent years, the once-singularly utilitarian cowboy boot has risen meteorically from the ranks of what some may call "hicksville," according to Reagan V. Brown, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture.

While originally attributed to the first true cowboy, the Mexican vacquero, it took the Texas trail driver of the middle and late 1800's to refine the style now recognized around the world.

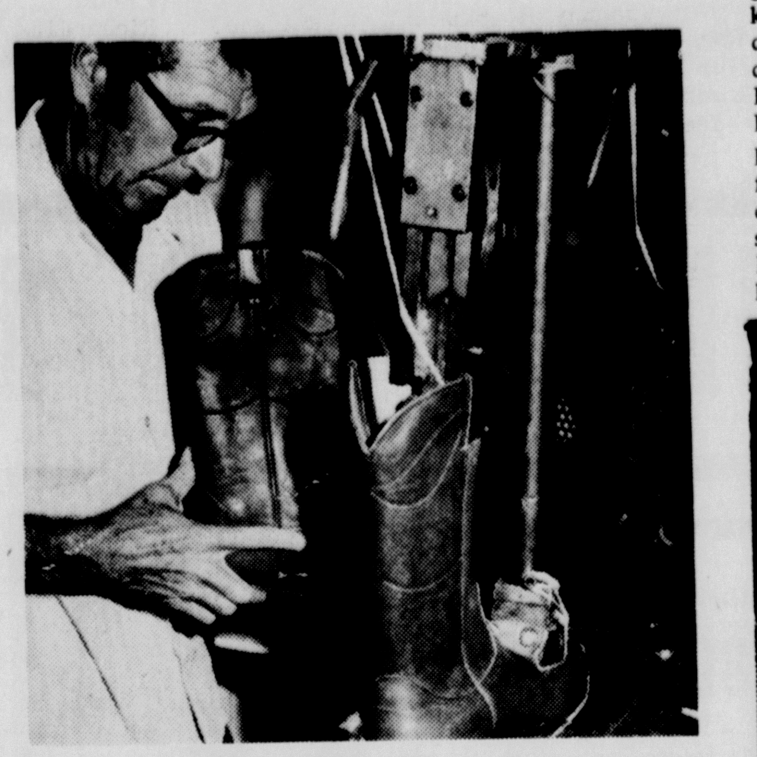
It wasn't long before bootmakers, often emigrants who adapted their skills from a cobbler's craft learned in the Old County, had set up shop along the meandering cattle "highways" to ply their trade among those charter-member boot aficionados who made the long, dusty trip.

As much as 90 per cent of all boots sold in Texas were handmade as late as the early 1940's. Today, however, the majority of bootshod individuals sport pairs which, unlike the completely handmade boot, have been hand-crafted utilizing varying degrees of machinery aid.

There is little argument that the highest quality hand-crafted boots in the world boast a Texas birthplace, with two of the leading brandname plants located in the North Central Texas area alone.

"Because the majority of boots are made at least in part from calfskin, boots comprise a major outlet for our country's leather production and add just one more item to the long list of valuable by-products available through the cattle industry," Brown said.

The old-time cowpuncher wore one patched pair most of his adult life and yes, was buried in them. But the modern boot wearer, whether real cowboy or drugstore type, has a different pair on hand for just about every occasion.



TEXAS TRADITION--The highest quality hand-crafted boots in the world boast a Texas birthplace. While a few craftsmen still make the boots entirely by hand most utilize varying degrees of mechanical aid.

The FBI has 169 million fingerprints on file—no two of which are exactly alike.

Turkeys Drop, TDA Reports

AUSTIN--Turkey production took a small dip in the state during the week ending April 16, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced.

A total of 235,000 poults was hatched during that time period, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, a decline of four per cent from the same period a year ago, but nearly the same as last week.

On the other hand, eggs set for heavy breed poult production, at 394,000, decreased 21 per cent from last year and dropped one per cent from the preceding week.

Czech Group To Perform In Slovakia

Temple Junior College instructor Calvin C. Chervenka and his wife Mildred will head a 30-member Texas Czech folkloric group which has been invited to perform this summer in Czechoslovakia.

The name of the performing group will be "Texane Ceskoslovenskeho Puvodu," which translates as "Texans of Czechoslovak Descent" or "Czech Texans." The group will be performing July 8, 9, and 10 at the Festival Under the Polana Mountain in Detva Slovakia.

The Detva Festival is one of the major folkloric festivals of Czechoslovakia and brings together folkloric groups from throughout Czechoslovakia, Europe, and the world. Reportedly, the Czechoslovaks compete for the right to perform and attend this festival. The only other American group invited is a Slovak group from Lynbrook, N.Y.

Chervenka is instructor in physics and engineering and coordinator of the Czech program at Temple Junior College. He and his wife are active in Czech ethnic activities in Texas and he has written and lectured extensively concerning the history of Texas Czechs and their cultural heritage.

Nuclear Waste Disposal Study Ordered For Texas

The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration will soon award a $265,000 contract to the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas to conduct geologic studies in the Texas Panhandle.

ERDA said studies by the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology will determine whether there are areas in the Palo Duro and Dalhart salt basins that may have potential for development of deep geologic facilities where nuclear waste could be permanently stored. If any areas proved to be promising, additional studies would be conducted to confirm suitability.

The scientific studies to be performed by the Texas Bureau include such tasks as basin analysis, rock analysis, geohydrolog, and identification of field confirmation study locations. The contract will cover an initial period of five months ending September 30, 1977, and can be extended to cover studies for up to five years.

ERDA initiated the National Waste Terminal Storage Program in 1976. The program calls for deep geologic disposal of solid nuclear waste generated from commercial nuclear power reactors which supply electricity.

Elderly approve meals in a box

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — A new meal system that permits an elderly person to prepare a tasty, nutritious meal in 10 minutes at home has been developed by The University of Texas Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs and NASA.

Field tests of the single-meal-in-a-box system (using food technology from the space program) found high favor among the elderly. They liked almost everything but English peas contained in the pre-packaged box of foil and flex pouches of freeze-dried or dehydrated items or canned foods.

If proved commercially feasible, the meal system could help some elderly persons continue living in their own homes.

Accidents Can Spoil Your Summertime Fun

Summertime and recreation just naturally go together, especially under the warm Texas sun. But the Texas Department of Health Resources warns that this year, as in past years, too many Texans will have their fun spoiled by unnecessary accidents.

Whatever type of recreation you choose, there are a few simple precautions you can take to ensure that you enjoy all of your vacation and leisure time.

According to safety experts, water sports offer the most frequent summertime hazards. Last year, nearly 500 people drowned in water-related accidents in Texas. Typically, swimming accidents take the largest toll each year, followed closely by fishing accidents. Boating, sailing, water-skiing, and canoeing also take their toll.

But not all drownings involve swimmers ans boaters. In too many cases prople fall from a place of presumed safety, such as a dock, bridge, or the edge of a swimming pool. When this happens, in many cases the person isn't prepared to swim and can't get himself to safety.

Children are most susceptible to this type of accident, especially very small children playing near a swimming pool or a pond. Two simple safety rules could prevent almost all such tragedies: first, never leave children without adult supervision; second, make sure everyone in the family knows how to swim. Free or very inexpensive swimming lessons are available in almost every community through American Red Cross programs and local recreation agencies.

Not only children but adults as well should wear an approved life jacket while on a boat or near deep water -- just in case of an unplanned dip. Even an expert swimmer won't be able to avoid drowning if he's knocked unconscious by a fall from a boat or by striking a rock underwater.

Always swim in areas you know are safe, either because thy're marked for swimming or because you're accompanied by someone who knows the area thoroughly. And that's another good safety rule: don't swim alone. If you get into trouble, your companion can toss you a life jacket or a rope to help you reach safety. never swim when you're chilled, overly tired, overheated, or you've just finished eating.

Anyone familiar with Texas weather knows that it can change rapidly. If you see thunderclouds building up or lightning in the distance, stay away from the water. Boats make an inviting target for a bolt of lightning, and choppy, wind-blown, water can turn a pleasant swim into a potentially deadly nightmare.

Make sure your boat is in excellent condition and meets all safety regulations, which includes having a Coast Guard-approved flotation device on board for each person. When pulling skiers, boat drivers must be on the watch for swimmers and other watercraft. It's a good idea to have two people in a tow boat -- one to drive and the other to watch the skier. It's also a good idea to learn the hand signals developed especially for skiers; it's too hard to hear above the noise of a motor, but a hand signal can get the message across.

Health authorities warn that there dangers in other kinds of recreational activities, too. Whether it's hang-gliding or golf, jogging or tennis, mountain-climbing or sunbathing, a few simple precautions can save you and your family a lot of grief.

First and foremost, don't get into anything over your head. Know what you're doing; plan and think ahead to avoid possible danger.

Second, don't overdo it. Over-extending yourself on a hot day under the bright sun is a sure way to put yourself in trouble. Exhaustion, sunburn, dehydration, sunstroke -- those are the penalties for people who don't know when to take it easy, and they can turn today's play-time into to-

Third, share your fun with a friend. Whatever your favorite leisure activity might be, it's almost always more enjoyable in another person's company -- preferably someone who can help if things go wrong.

Local Doctor Retains AAFP Membership

E. Douglas Perrin, M.D, has completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors.

The Academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of acc redited continuing medical study every three years. Members become eligible for re-election at the end of the third year following their election to membership.

The Academy, the country's second largest national medical association, is the only national medical group that requires members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

The Academy, founded in 1947 and headquarted in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in the establishment of a new primary specialty in family practice in 1969. The new specialty is expected to increase the numbers of family physicians available to serve the public in the future.

The Academy's continuing education program is the foundation of eligibilty for family doctors now in practice who apply for certification in the new specialty.

'Aging' attitudes

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Modern society, which is oriented to productivity and youth, tends to lump the elderly into the negative stereotypes of "senile" and "cantankerous," says a University of Texas associate professor of nursing.

Dr. Ruth Gallman says those stereotypes cause younger people "to withdraw very subtly and cease to identify with their elders as human beings."

Among clues she lists as revealing negative attitudes toward aging are: institutions for older people are called nursing homes or old-age homes; clothing stores do not cater to the elderly, and few in the health-care professions go into the geriatric field.

DRIEST SPOT

The driest spot on earth is the Ataca Desert, Chile, where the rainfall is barely measurable. At Calama, a city in the desert, no rain ever has been recorded. The rainiest place is Hawaii's Mount Waialeale, which receives an average of 460 inches a year. One year the total was 624 inches -- a foot of rain a week.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Dear Frank:

This letter is just to inform the parents of 7th and 8th grade boys that participate in athletics what can happen to their personal belongings. We all knew the end of school was drawing near and that all items of the students were to be taken home as they were no longer required for any of the remaining classes. An order, with no ultimatum, went out instructing students to remove personal possessions from their athletic "lockers", (wire cages with no tops or doors), and TAKE THEM HOME. Last Tuesday, my son went down into the dressing area and found that all his possessions had already been removed. After checking with his coach as to the where-abouts, he come home to tell me someone had stolen all of his belongings. His coach had no idea what had become of them as he gave no order for anything to be thrown out. We were under the assumption that they had been stolen. After further investigation though we were informed that another coach gave an order for some 6th grade boys to go down to the dressing area and discard everything in the area. We were down in the locker area and there was shoes,. socks, shirts, towels, and etc. scattered about the room so it had not been cleaned up 100% but all the lockers were empty. The items that were collected were thrown into boxes and these were then carried off by our city employees of the sanitation department.

I personally called the coach involved, inquiring about the incident, and after and exchange of "heated" words was told that my son showed no sense of responsibility and that the students that threw out the items had no sense of value and could not be responsible for discarding, a pair of football shoes valued at $29.95, a pair of basketball shoes value $11.95, a pair of knee pads value $3.00, gym shorts and tee shirt value $5.00, a Yoeman windbreaker value $10.00, and a quilted vest valued at $12.00. As you can see in a short time the lesson of responsibility cost me $61.90. Not bad I guess considering the lesson at hand. While talking to the coach on the telephone he rudely hung up. One would certainly expect better manners than that from a college graduate that has been given such a responsible job as a teacher in our public schools.

School is out now and I told the coach I would spend the summer months trying to teach my child some of the responsibility he failed to learn in his formitive years. Needless to say I feel the action taken by this instructor was uncalled for and if he needs to "show" 8th graders, or anyone else, just how much authority he does have he needs to start first in learning manners and that a grown man does make mistakes and realize that that is how we all learn, but first we have to admit them to ourself.

A lesson learned and well paid for helps us all mature. My sons possessions is not an isolated case as several of the boys lost their belongings.

Thank you for allowing me this opportunity to express myself.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Joe Mondrik Sr

but business thrives on it, and we all derive from it one of life's greatest luxuries—a free choice.

Some people say the competitive nature of business is wrong. They easily overlook the hard, cold fact that our competitive free enterprise system has helped create an economic structure that provides more benefits to all of us than any other system ever known. And, often generates surpluses of goods and services that we share with less fortunate countries.

Some people even go farther and say that competition itself is wrong.

And, we would be the first to agree, if what they are really saying is that unfair competition is wrong.

Because what that means is that immoral acts are wrong—not competition itself.

The game is not wrong, because some players don't play by the rules.

At Ralph Wilson Plastics Company, we champion fair competition. We believe that our economic system, with high moral principles, allows each of us to realize the fullest expression of our God-given talents and capabilities for the common good of society.

And, that fair competition is the best way to provide more jobs, more secure jobs—and continually improve and expand the products and services available for our use.

So, next time you hear someone complain about "competition"- ask them to define their terms.

Are they just "fuzzy" thinkers?

Or, are they confusing the act of competition with the unfair practices of some of the actors.

In either case, it might be a good idea to defend the competitive system. By supporting it, and promoting it, and improving it. For it's not difficult to look around the world and see the results of other systems.

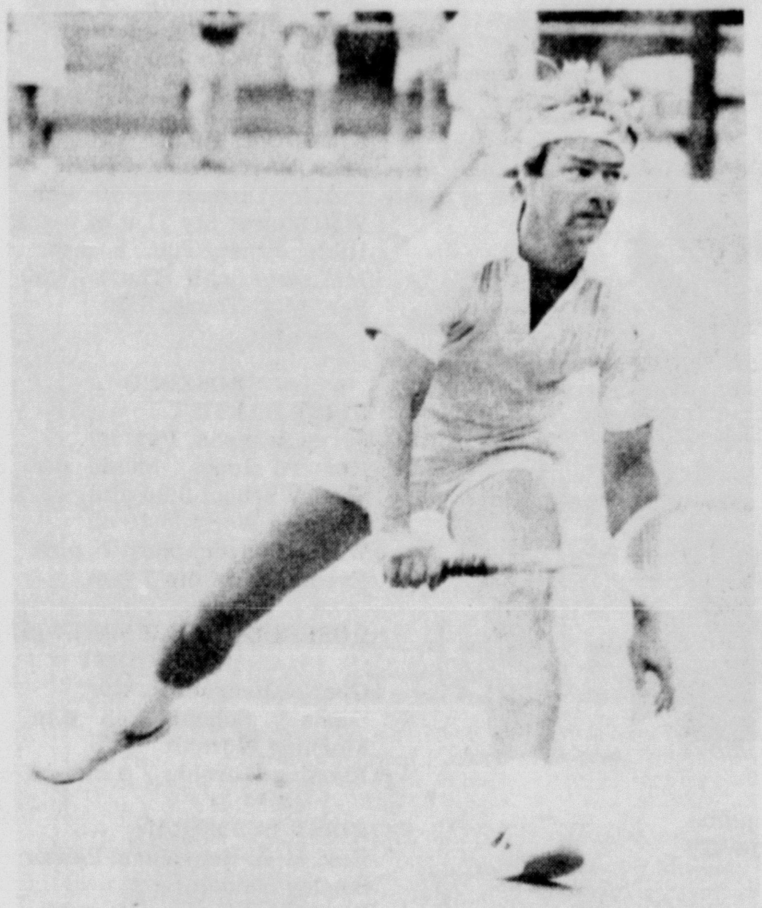
Tennis Club Holds Second Tourney

The Cameron Tennis courts were alive with action over the holiday weekend weekend as the Cameron Tennis association held its second annual tournament hosting 103 participants from all over the state.

Action for the two day affair included men's and Women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles with trophies awarded to winners in all catagories.

In the men's singles event Bill Cooke of Rockdale swung his way to the finals defeating Davis of Temple while Randy Sullivan of Franklin traveled the distance to meet Cooke in the finals defeating Anderson of Rockdale 6-3, 6-4. Sullivan met Cooke in the showdown for first place, Sullivan taking the singles title.

Women's singles action saw Brenda McGoldrick of Templ defeat Diane Pyle of Cameron to take the title. McGoldrick reached the finals defeating Barnett of Franklin while Pyle defeated Fleming of Hearne.



ACTION WAS HOT and heavy on the Cameron tennis courts as participants from all over Texas flocked to Cameron for the Cameron Tennis Associations second annual tournament held Saturday and Sunday.

Rockdales' Wayne Pachard and Jerry Anderson proved to be the best of the lot in the men's doubles division defeating Hedrick and Metcalf of Franklin for the title. Hedrick and Metcalf met Wallis and Cooke of Rockdale in the semi's defeating them 7-6, 6-4, while Packard and Anderson met Sullivan and Phillips, defeating them for their final berth.

The women's doubles team of Pyle and Middleton of Cameron won it all to take the doubles honors. Pyle and Middleton defeated Luckett and Weed of Rockdale 6-1, 6-2. The Cameron reached the finals defeating Caywood and Tasler of Rockdale 6-0, 6-1 while the Rockdale team of Luckett and Weed made the finals defeating Thweatt and Story of Cameron.

The Women's doubles 35-over division was dominated by Cope and Metcalfe of Franklin, as they defeated Phillips and Miedleton of Franklin. Cope and Metcalfe met Lovett and Rich of Austin in the semi's while Phillips and Middleton faced Huffman and Thweatt of Cameron defeating them 6-3, 6-2.

Franklin dominated the field of teams in the mixed doubles event, as both finalist teams were from Franklin. The team of Sullivan and Middleton defeated Wise and Pyle of Cameron to reach the finals while Phillips and Metcalfe defeated Wallis and Weed of Rockdale to reach the finals. The event was to be completed in Franklin at a later date.

Success is the only word for the Tennis Club's second annual tournament, as they did their share to aid the rising popularity of tennis in the Cameron area.

Austin To Host Tennis Champions

World Championship Tennis is returning to Austin with Jimmy Connors heading the elite field of eight of the world's top players competing in the $200,000 Shakey's Tournament of Champions, July 7-10, at World of Tennis Resort.

Joining Connors in the second half will be Manuel Orantes, Arthur Ashe, Dick Stockton, Tony Roche, Harold Solomon, Mark Cox, and Onny Parun.

This is a unique WCT tournament with an unusual format. The first half of the draw was played in March with Australian Ken Rosewall beating Eddie Dibbs to win a berth in the finals. The winner of the July tournament will meet Rosewall in Madison Square Gardens on September 10th. The champion will claim a $60,000 first prize.

All players were selected for the competition based on winning a WCT event or another appropriate tournament title in 1976. The event is a single-elimination knockout event.

The Austin Junior Tennis Foundation will receive $10,000 from the tournament's proceeds. Plans for the fund include the establishment of scholarships to underwrite the cost of sending young players in Austin to youth camps at World of Tennis Resort. KTBC-TV, the local sponsor of the tournament, is leading the effort to raise the $10,000.

Tickets are now on sale for the July tournament. Ticket flyers are available at All Austin Shakey's, 7-11's, and major department and sporting goods stores. Prices start at $6.00.

Additional information is available at World of Tennis Resort. (512) 261-6000.

JIMMY CONNORS - one of the eight the worlds top players who will compete in the Shakey's Tournament of Champions to be held July 7-10 at the World Tennis resort in Austin.

State Tax Collections Increasing

Comptroller Bob Bullock reported Thursday that state tax collection for the current fiscal year are running a healthy 16 per cent over the same period in fiscal 1976.

Bullock said tax collections through the first seven months of fiscal 1977 (September 1, 1976 to March 31 1977) totaled $2.24 billion an increase of $315.8 million over the same period of fiscal 1976.

The Comptroller noted that during this period sales tax revenue has increased by 16 percent, motor vehicle sales tax by 25 percent and natural gas production tax by 33 percent.

(A 159 percent increase in corporate franchise tax revenue was due largely to the release of funds under protest after the settlement of a court case, he explained.

The report on tax collections was included in Bullock's monthly financial statement for May.

The Comptroller reported that total state revenues thus far in fiscal 1977 are $3.8 billion, up 11 percent over 1976. Meanwhile, he said, total state expenditures during the same period were $3.95 billion, an increase of only 1 percent over 1976 levels.p

The state closed its books at the end of March with a cash balance of $1.31 billion, Bullock concluded.

Bill is so proud of his final report card that he's sharing the good news with Towser. Children thrive on accomplishment, and they need family and friends — and, yes, even their dog — to rejoice with them.

Like Bill, we all thrive on accomplishment and want to share it with others. If we broaden this trait in human nature we will want to make the whole of our experience a living success. In doing so, we will fulfill our own ambitions which God has planted deeply within us.

But stark ambition is not enough, and God has given us the patience of love and understanding as well. What a combination! There is no set formula, but your church will put these assets in proper perspective. Now you can share — now you can rejoice.

IRS Issues Revised Sick Pay Form

The Internal Revenue Service today announced that it has issued a revised version of the 1976 sick pay exclusion form to enable taxpayers to compute the exclusion which has been extended for a year by the Tax Reduction and Simplification Act of 1977. The revised Form 2440, marked with a 1977 revision date, is available in IRS offices.

The legislation extends until January 1, 1977, provisions of the law which allowed a sick/disability pay exclusion for all qualifying taxpayers. Previously, the Tax Reform Act of 1976 had revoked, retroactive to January 1, 1976, this exclusion for all but totally and permanently disabled retirees under age 65.

As a result of the change in law, eligible taxpayers can exclude from income up to $100 a week sick/disability pay received during 1976 when they were out of work while sick, injured or disabled. Disabled retirees cannot, however, claim the exclusion after mandatory retirement.

Taxpayers who made an election under the Tax Reform Acto to recover their contributions to an annuity or pension plan now have the option to withdraw that election. However, if by revoking the election and claiming the sick/disability pay exclusion there is no change in tax liability, an amended return need not be filed.

The IRS cautioned that the new law provides relief to taxpayers only for their 1976 income taxes.

Crawford said they plan to add to their stock to offer the people of this area a wide assortment of merchandise and services, some of which remain to be worked out.

They will be open from 8:30 to 6 weekdays and Saturdays and other hours by appointment.

Pattern Alterations

By: Chris Holcombe

Guidelines for successful pattern alterations -- Altering patterns before using them makes sewing for properfit easier.

Successful pattern alterations depend on following several guidelines.

-- Take accurate body measurements, and know your figure problems before beginning any alteration.

-- Measure the pattern to determine the amount of change needed. Don't guess make accurate notes on changes to be made.

-- Make all alterations to the pattern while it is flat. A flat pattern is necessary for accurate cutting of the fabric.

-- Avoid changing the shape of the shoulders, armhole or neckline if possible. These are difficult areas to reshape and fit.

-- Make only one alteration at a time -- even if it means making several on the same pattern piece. The results are more accurate.

-- For more information about successful pattern alterations, contact your county Extension office for a copy of the free booklet "Personalizing Patterns."

RAY CHARLES

Ray Charles Stars June 13, In Austin

"The Ray Charles Show", featuring soul-singer Ray Charles, The Raeletts, and the Ray Charles orchestra has been announced for a one night special at the Country Dinner Playhouse on Monday, June 13.

Ray Charles has had one of the most astonishing careers in the history of American show business. For nearly two decades he has been a dominating figure on the popular-mucic scene, creating a legacy of memorable records that began with his first hit, "I Got A Woman."

Special prices for this engagement are $15 for dinner and show with doors opening at 6 p.m. and show starting at 7:45.

Cocktail show will be $10 with doors opening at 10 and show starting at 10:30.

Tickets must be purchased in advance. Phone orders will be taken with Bankamericard or Master Charge. Call the CDP Box office at 836-5921.

Helpful Homemaker Hints

-- Save time when sewing double knit fabrics -- by turning under seam allowances for hems on armholes, sleeves or neck edges, instead of facing them. Top stitch with plain or decorative stitching for a quick finish.

-- When buying a child's bike, make sure it is the right size -- not one the child will "grow into." Get one with adjustable seat and handle bars that will "grow" with your child.

-- Toss chocolate chips, pecans, raisins and other dried fruits in flour mixture of recipes to keep them from sticking together and settling to the bottom.

Milam RTA

The Temple area chapter of the American Association of Retired persons received the triennial review Friday afternoon at the regular meeting place of the chapter, the Memorial Baptist Church of Temple. The review was conducted by the AARP state director, Ernest Flick of Dallas. He was assisted by the Rev. Henry L. Gillenwaters of Waco, area director of AARP.

The review included a look at the chapter in its relationship to the national association, as to number of meetings held annually, board meetings held, records of the chapter, regular reports to state and national; proper minutes kept, a look at the typical agenda of meetings; participation in area and community health, law enforcement, educational programs, etc.; participation in area and state workshops, abiding by the standard chapter by-laws, type of programs held monthly and other matters.

Chapter officers attending the review were: Brunie F. Harbour, president; Mrs. L.P. Moore, secretary; board and committee members attending were: Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Brookshire, Mrs. W.D. Cornegay and Mrs. Gene Harbour.

At the end of the review, state director Flick said he will recommend that the charter of the Temple area chapter be renewed for another three-year period. The charter is issued by the National AARP office.

Pleasure & Profit

The Pleasure and Profit Club held their final meeting for the club year, Thursday afternoon at the first Baptist Church. Ada Margeret Smith was hostess for the meeting.

The hostess served decorated cake squares with punch to members and guests.

The club president, Jean Tumlinson called the meeting to order. After the business meeting, Frances Walzel, program chairman introduced her sister-in-law, Joan Walzel of Rogers, who presented a program which might have been entitled, "What's Your Bag".

Mrs. Walzel displayed all types and kinds of handmade purses which she had designed and mader herself. She had patterns available for all her different purses, for those who wished to have one.

At the end of the program three members who were fortunate enough to be holding the lucky numbers each received one of Mrs. Walzels bags.

Homemaker Hints

-- Thaw raw meat and poultry in the refrigerator -- or, if you must thaw them outside the refrigerator, put them in a sealed plastic bag under cold running water, or put them in a closed double paper bag without the use of water. The trick is to allow the products to get just warm enought to thaw -- yet stay cool enough to slow down germ growth, particularly on meat surfaces.

Psychologists say you can often talk yourself into doing something depressing, such as dieting, if you tell yourself you're really cheerful about it.

Doris Valka Honored With Shower

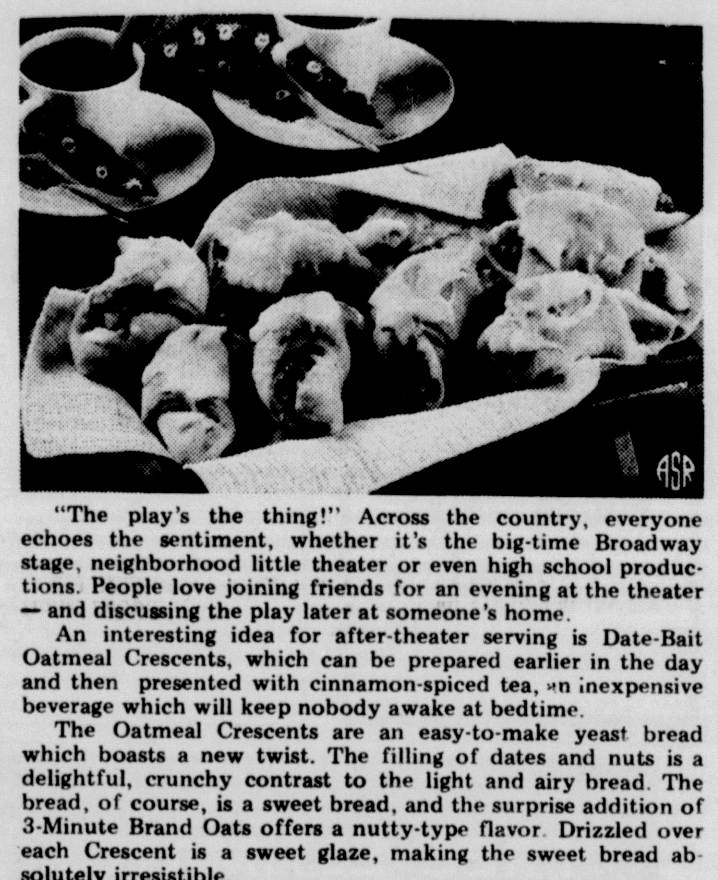
Miss Doris Valka, bride elect of Gary Cockrum was honored Sunday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Clarence Cockrum.

The serving table was centered with a bride doll cake and two lighted blue candles. The cake was decorated in blue and white, the chosen colors of the bride.

Special guests were Mrs. Melush Valka, mother of the bride; Mrs. Clarence Cocktum, mother of the bridegroom of Moffat; Mrs. Ernest Lorenz of Buckholts; grandmother of the bride; and Mrs. Oscar Wendler of Bartlett, grandmother of the bridegroom.

The couple will be married July 2 in St. Monica's Catholic Church.

More than half the cranberries grown in the U.S. come from Massachusetts, around Cape Cod.



"The play's the thing!" Across the country, everyone echoes the sentiment, whether it's the big-time Broadway stage, neighborhood little theater or even high school productions. People love joining friends for an evening at the theater — and discussing the play later at someone's home.

An interesting idea for after-theater serving is Date-Bait Oatmeal Crescents, which can be prepared earlier in the day and then presented with cinnamon-spiced tea, an inexpensive beverage which will keep nobody awake at bedtime.

The Oatmeal Crescents are an easy-to-make yeast bread which boasts a new twist. The filling of dates and nuts is a delightful, crunchy contrast to the light and airy bread. The bread, of course, is a sweet bread, and the surprise addition of 3-Minute Brand Oats offers a nutty-type flavor. Drizzled over each Crescent is a sweet glaze, making the sweet bread absolutely irresistible.

From tragedies to dramas to comedies to musicals, the "play's the thing," and each playgoer adds his opinions as he partakes of the newest after-theater refreshments. Each woman begs the recipe for her next Sunday brunch. The Oatmeal Crescents are definitely theater date-bait, and everyone loves them.

Date-Bait Oatmeal Crescents

1 cup 3-Minute Brand Quick Oats
1 cup boiling water
1/2 cup shortening
1/3 cup sugar
1-1/2 teaspoon salt
1 package active dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water (110 degrees)
1 egg
3-1/2 to 4 cups flour

Filling

3/4 cup finely chopped dates
3/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup chopped nuts
6 tablespoons butter, melted

Glaze

1-1/2 cups powdered sugar
2-1/2 tablespoons milk or cream
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Combine oats, boiling water, shortening, sugar and salt. Mix well and cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in water. Stir into cooled oat mixture along with the egg and half of flour. Add enough remaining flour to form a soft dough.

Knead until smooth and satiny. Place in a greased bowl, turning once to grease surface. Cover and let rise until double in size.

Combine filling ingredients. Divide dough into 3 parts. Roll each into a 12-inch circle and cut into 8 pie shaped wedges. Place a teaspoon of filling on wide end of each wedge. Rolling from that end, roll each wedge to point. Place point side down on greased baking sheet and curve to make crescent. Let rise 45 minutes. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes. Combine glaze ingredients and drizzle over each roll.
